BEACON BAY

[9] A CLEAN CAR

Beacon Bay Enterprises, Inc., with 7 locations in Orange County, began recycling water more than 40 years ago. Today it uses only about 10 gallons of water per wash. A homeowner doing the same job uses up to 7 times that amount and runs the risk of letting soap and detergent drain into the ocean.

"If people just washed their cars at their local auto wash, they could literally save thousands of gallons per household," says Patrick Shea, President of Beacon Bay and past president of the Western Car Wash Association.
